

Monday, November 3, 2008 • 1:00 – 7:00pm

BCERF

Cornell University

Regional Cancer and Environment Forum

The Charles B. Wang Center at Stony Brook University
Room 201 • Stony Brook, New York

- 1:00pm     Welcome and Introductions
Dr. Rodney Page, Alexander de Lahunta Chair of Clinical Sciences and Director, BCERF
- 1:15pm     Contaminants Emerging in Our Water: Don't We Have Enough to Worry About?
Dr. Henry J. Bokuniewicz, Professor, School of Marine and Atmospheric Sciences, Stony Brook University
- 2:00pm     Children's Environmental Health Centers of Excellence: Partnerships Making a Difference
Stephen Boese, Executive Director, Learning Disabilities Association of New York State
Karen Joy Miller, President, Huntington Breast Cancer Action Coalition
- 3:00pm     Genetic Variation, Environmental Factors, and Breast Cancer Risk
Dr. Mia Gaudet, Assistant Attending Epidemiologist, Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center
- 4:00pm     The Estrogen Connection: Estrogenic Chemicals in Plastics, Personal Care Products and Electronics
Dr. Suzanne Snedeker, Associate Director for Translational Research, BCERF
- 5:00        BREAK
- 5:30        Dinner Program
Please join us over dinner to continue learning about The Estrogen Connection through discussion and a showing of BCERF's three short videos:
- Cosmetics and More
  - Plastics
  - In the Dump and Down the Drain
- Younger women are especially invited to this part of the program to share their response to the videos and discuss risk reduction strategies for their age group.*
- 7:00pm     CLOSING

RSVP

RSVP to Carmi Orenstein at 607-255-1185 or cs01@cornell.edu

NOTE: This program has a strict participant limit.

Program on Breast Cancer and Environmental Risk Factors
(BCERF)

SPRECHER INSTITUTE
for Comparative
Cancer Research